If it takes 10,000 hours to master a craft...

There's a theory out there that says it takes roughly 10,000 hours to become a master of one's craft. At least that's what some studies have found when it comes to being a violinist.

When you do the math that's the equivalent of just about five years of steady work in one's area of expertise.

So if that's the case, what level of craftsmanship would you consider Kirk Westberg to have achieved when it comes to building quality high-performance engines after spending 35 years in the business?

Kirk has never quit learning those new tricks that will keep your ride or race car going strong.

To get the rest of the story visit the Westberg Advanced Engines on Facebook and find out about this virtuoso of valves, pistons and everything else under the hood.

Building Precision Engines Since 1979

Help us honor our 2014 champions, submit your profiles

Yes....print is still alive. You know it because if you are reading this it's in print with ink and on paper.

So cast aside the notion that you can promote yourself solely on the web and through Facebook. Because if you are doing so, you are simply "sending the grain back through the silo" — and not sending it to market to make bread — as a good friend likes to say.

With that in mind, take some time over the next few weeks connect with us and help up honor the hard work that has gone into various track and series champions.

Each week this publication distributes 30,000 copies across Eastern Washington and North Idaho at some 750 locations. From Canada to Clarkston, Grand Coulee to the Idaho stateline, no one provides more motorsports news in this area 52 weeks a year.

Champions, this is your place to earn a little "love" (for FREE, too) that you NEVER get in print, unless it's here.

Here's what we need from you:

Unfortunately, we cannot count on ALL racing facilities to cooperate and provide this information. So if your race track or race group has not had been featured recently in our yearly "Champion's Profiles" series, please contact us via email at news@nwmns.com for details.

We'll devote our section solely to these profiles for the next several weeks, probably through January when we begin previewing the 2105 season.

Here's what we need:

1. Champion's car (or bike or kart) photo. (A driver/rider mug would also be nice).
2. Point standing showing they are indeed champions in a text or other file that can be edited (i.e. no PDFs, JPGs.).
3. Brief biographical info.
4. Sponsor info.

Yep...when WE work for YOU it DOES produce results!

Spirit Lake's big fund-raising event, the Big Backin mower race, needed a little good PR.

When those crazy road racing Chump Cars looked to get noticed over a busy July 4th Weekend in Spokane, well there was only one place they turned. Chump Cars had two in depth stories on their marathon 36-hour race. And as Spokane County Raceway battled to get the correct information out to a media that just LOVES to only tell part of the story.

Guess who? Motorsports in our region has many GREAT stories to tell, but truth be told, few, if any media people will ever know unless you ask.

It's not that they don't care — they're all looking for that potential Emmy-Award winner. They are just all too consumed with the old traditional stories.

That's where NWMotorsports News Services fits in to provide you with a wide array of promotional services.

We'll admit we find it hard to do even the most routine automotive maintenance — let alone rebuild a motor or fix body damage — but we DO KNOW what it takes to try to get you ink in your local paper, or video at 11 p.m.

- News releases • Feature stories
  - Professional photography
  - Web pages • Media kits
  - Eye-catching sponsor and marketing proposals and more!
- (Pricing starts about the cost of a full tank of gas.)

"After spending the last 10-plus years sending out our own press release with little response by the media you've single handedly turned that around."
Marc Kroetch
Big Backin

"You're our Chump Car guardian angel. Looks like we may have the morning show reporter for KXLY TV come out."

Cathy McCauley
Executive Vice Chump - West Region

It's that time again to send us your 2014 champion's profiles

Here's what we need:

- Car photo • Driver mug • Point stands.
- Brief bio on driver • Sponsor list
